2) By Train

By train, you come to Hon-Atsugi station via Shinjuku (新宿) station.

a) The easiest way is to take a direct train “JR Narita Express (NEX)” from Narita airport, which takes 80 minutes to JR Shinjuku station and costs 3,310yen. Tickets are available at the arrival lobby. NEX station is on the underground level of the airport. Take any express trains bound for Omiya (大宮), Ikebukuro (池袋) or Shinjuku (新宿). Timetable for NEX is as follows(* 3). After you arrive at JR Shinjuku station, transfer to another train, Odakyu line (小田急線). Please check the map of Shinjuku station(* 4).

b) You can also use “Keisei line (京成)”, with which you transfer at Nippori (日暮里) station onto JR Yamanote-line (山手線) to Shinjuku. Keisei line costs 2,110yen with “Sky-liner” Express train.

From Shinjuku, take Odakyu line to Hon-Atsugi. Among several exits, take either West or South (not New South) exit. Shinjuku station is one of the largest transit hubs in Tokyo, servicing many different train and subway lines. Each has its own separate gate so make sure you make your way toward Odakyu line. Purchase an Odakyu ticket at a vending machine, the price of which is 480 yen to Hon-Atsugi.

Odakyu Shinjuku station has two departure-floors: upper for Express train and lower for Local train. Do not take local train (各駅停車, kakueki-teisha) since it stops at every station and even waits for express trains passing by. You should better not take Semi Express (準急, jyunkyu) or Section Semi Express (区間準急, kukan-jyunkyu) train since they stop at many stations. Choose Rapid Express (快速急行, kaisoku-kyuko) or Express (急行, kyuko) train bound for Odawara (小田原) or Hakone-Yumoto (箱根湯本) among several expresses. Also, there are express trains which go to other directions (such as 湘南急行, Shonan-kyuko and 多摩急行, Tama-Kyuko). Please ask people around you to make sure it takes you to the right destination. Express (急行, kyuko) leaves every 10 minutes from platform 4 and 5, and takes 50min. to Hon-Atsugi (本厚木). The last train to Hon-Atsugi leaves Shinjuku at 11:35pm.

If you come around evening rush hours, 5-8pm, Limited-Express (特急ロマンスカー, tokkyu romance car) could be an option. You pay double (1,030yen vs. 480yen) and get a reserved seat. It is only 10minutes faster, 40min. to Hon-Atsugi, however, provides more space and comfort. Not all the limited-express make a stop at Hon-Atsugi, so please check whether your train stops there. Tickets are available until a few minutes before departure as long as seats are available.
